Boswell House

Frank Lloyd Wright and Cincinnati: Bibliography &

To the Boswell House, view of entry courtyard, from the north-west. Photograph by Eugenio and Antonella Basan. 1999.

The Boswell House Collection of Frank Lloyd Wright.

The Boswell House, from the south-east. Photograph by Mark Ostrowski, 2008. From the University of Cincinnati Digital Collections & Repositories @UC Libraries.

The Boswell House, from north. Photograph by Alice Weston. ca. 1990s. From the University of Cincinnati Digital Collections & Repositories @UC Libraries.

The Boswell House, from west. The Boswell House, 1957.

The Boswell House, from north. Photograph by Mark Ostrowski, 2008. From the University of Cincinnati Digital Collections & Repositories @UC Libraries.

The Boswell House, from east. Photograph by Mark Ostrowski, 2008. From the University of Cincinnati Digital Collections & Repositories @UC Libraries.

The Boswell House, from west. Photograph by Mark Ostrowski, 2008. From the University of Cincinnati Digital Collections & Repositories @UC Libraries.

To the Boswell House, a 30-foot (originally 45-foot) terrace is the counterpart for the terrace at Taliesin West, the Arizona home of Wright. Wright’s large, southwest-facing terrace is a great example of the L-plan, a plan Wright used with varying degrees of success in his work. The Boswell House, View of the terrace at Taliesin West, new as of 1957, as viewed from the terrace. Photograph by Benjamin Dombar. 1957. From the University of Cincinnati Digital Collections & Repositories @UC Libraries.

The Boswell House, as viewed from the hilltop site looking to the north. Photograph by Benjamin Dombar. 1957. From the University of Cincinnati Digital Collections & Repositories @UC Libraries.

The Boswell House, 1957, in its natural site. Photograph by Benjamin Dombar. 1957. From the University of Cincinnati Digital Collections & Repositories @UC Libraries.

The Boswell House, 1957, as photographed by Benjamin Dombar, who was director of photography for the University of Cincinnati. The Boswell House, 1957. From the University of Cincinnati Digital Collections & Repositories @UC Libraries.

The Boswell House, from south. Photograph by Benjamin Dombar. 1957. From the University of Cincinnati Digital Collections & Repositories @UC Libraries.

The Boswell House, from north. Photograph by Benjamin Dombar. 1957. From the University of Cincinnati Digital Collections & Repositories @UC Libraries.

The Boswell House, from east. Photograph by Benjamin Dombar. 1957. From the University of Cincinnati Digital Collections & Repositories @UC Libraries.

The Boswell House, photographed by Benjamin Dombar. 1957. From the University of Cincinnati Digital Collections & Repositories @UC Libraries.

The Boswell House, photographed by Benjamin Dombar. 1957. From the University of Cincinnati Digital Collections & Repositories @UC Libraries.