>>The old cities have a history of the past. Victory Cities will create a >>history of the future. This is a world of change and Victory Cities will >>provide a major change. For economies compare the map of Victory City with >>the map of Dayton, Ohio, USA, Dayton is a typical old, obsolete and >>uneconomical city. Dayton is not alone. All present day cities are >obsolete,
>>not only the old ones but newly built ones as well, as they follow too much >>the pattern of the old ones. This is due to the fact that most people are >>predominantly traditionally minded and cannot free themselves from their >>early indoctrination.

>>Don't worry about enticing people to live in a Victory City. In the United >>States there are 265 million people. We only need 10,000 for the first >>residential building of the first VC which will ultimately house 45,000.
>>This size is the basic unit of Victory Cities. A VC can be any number of >>units. My plans in the website happen to depict a city of 7 units.

>>The security system in VC is designed for the security of the people who >>live there, not their harassment. For recreation, click on the section >>"recreation" under "Residents Guide".
