

Programming for Today's Learner

Dec. 17, 1990

Orville Simpson
3417 Erie Ave. Apt # 406
Cincinnati, Ohio

Dear Orville,

I talked to Carol Koffarnus and Frank Batavick at AIT and they both concurred; we have no problem with you showing the program to De Vere Burt of the Cincinnati Museum of Natural History or anyone else who is curious about Victory City. If they are interested in using part of the video as part of a display or some other arrangement, then they would need to talk over the specific details with either Carol Koffarnus or Frank Batavick. Final approval can only be granted with a clear understanding of the program's utilization.

In general, I would say that AIT is interested in supporting whatever can be done to help education. It is part of our non-profit agency's mission. If there is anything else we can do, please let me know.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads 'David Gudaitis'.

David Gudaitis
Executive Producer

812-339-2203

